Greece: Bluebus signs an exclusive distribution agreement with the Syngelidis Group for its electric minibuses

Aiglon, a subsidiary of the Syngelidis Group, becomes the exclusive distributor of the new electric 6-meter Bluebus for Greece.

Bluebus, a manufacturer of 100% electric buses, is currently deploying its European distribution network for its 6-meter minibus and has just signed an exclusive agreement in Greece with the Syngelidis Group, a major vehicle importer. Aiglon, a subsidiary of the Syngelidis Group, will be the Bluebus 6m distributor for Greece, and subsequently for Cyprus when a right-hand drive version will be launched.

This is the first agreement that Bluebus has concluded for its latest minibus within its range of 100% electric urban and suburban buses. With a length of a bit less than 6 meters, it has been designed to easily negotiate narrow downtown streets but is also ideal for short day-to-day trips in suburban areas where passenger density is low. As a result, the minibus is particularly well-suited to the Greek market.

The Bluebus 6m was eco-designed in France. Its 98% recyclable structure is produced in our ISO 9001- & ISO 14001-certified factories in Brittany and bears the Guaranteed French Origin label. Offering a range that could go beyond 280 km, it has 3 LMP® (Lithium-Metal-Polymer) all-solid-state battery packs with on-board energy amounting to 126 kWh. It can carry up to 35 passengers and boasts smooth handling thanks to its small size (5.94 m x 2.21 m x 2.94 m).

The Syngelidis Group is a major player in the Greek transportation sector. It imports and distributes the Stellantis Group's flagship brands—Peugeot, Citroën, DS Automobiles, Opel, Free2Move—via separate dedicated sales and service networks. Syngelidis Automotive Companies was the first automotive firm in Greece to implement the ISO 9001, ISO 14001, and ISO 45001 standards across all its activities.

“The agreement with the Syngelidis Group will ensure our presence in a very dynamic, high-potential market. This partnership with a major player in the Greek market will provide us with the opportunity to respond to calls for tender for electric minibuses in Greece with a suitable vehicle. This is an important step in our European development strategy, and I would like to thank M. Dimitri Xylinas, Advisor to the Bolloré Group, for his precious contribution in this process”.

Richard Bouveret, CEO & Chairman of Bluebus

About Bluebus

Bluebus was founded in 2007 in Ergué-Gabéric (Brittany) and is part of the Bolloré Group. It is a French manufacturer of 100% electric buses. These buses, available in 6-meter and 12-meter versions, are fitted with all-solid-state batteries produced by Blue Solutions.
